THEME EXPLANATION

DURING recent years there has existed a great period of transition for Duke University, a period of development and of expansion from the place of a small Southern college to that of a great modern university of nation-wide prominence and influence. But in its essentials the Duke of today embodies the ideals and the aims that made Trinity College a powerful factor for the cultural and spiritual development of North Carolina.

In the making of the year book for 1930, the Chanticleer staff has used a historical theme, one representing important events in the life of Duke University and in the lives of some of those who have been associated with this, an inspiring institution, possessing a noble ambition for service to mankind. Each division page in this volume is suggestive of some period in the history of Trinity and Duke, and may each one be a reminder of the invaluable contributions that the College and the University have made to progress and achievement for well-nigh a century.

Pine branches were chosen as a basis for the art motif of the 1930 Chanticleer because they are representative of North Carolina, Duke's home, and the area in whose development she has had so large a part. We trust that those who peruse these pages may find in them something of the soul of Duke University, a great benevolent being, young in a physical sense, but old in service and in the possession of a forceful spiritual ideal.

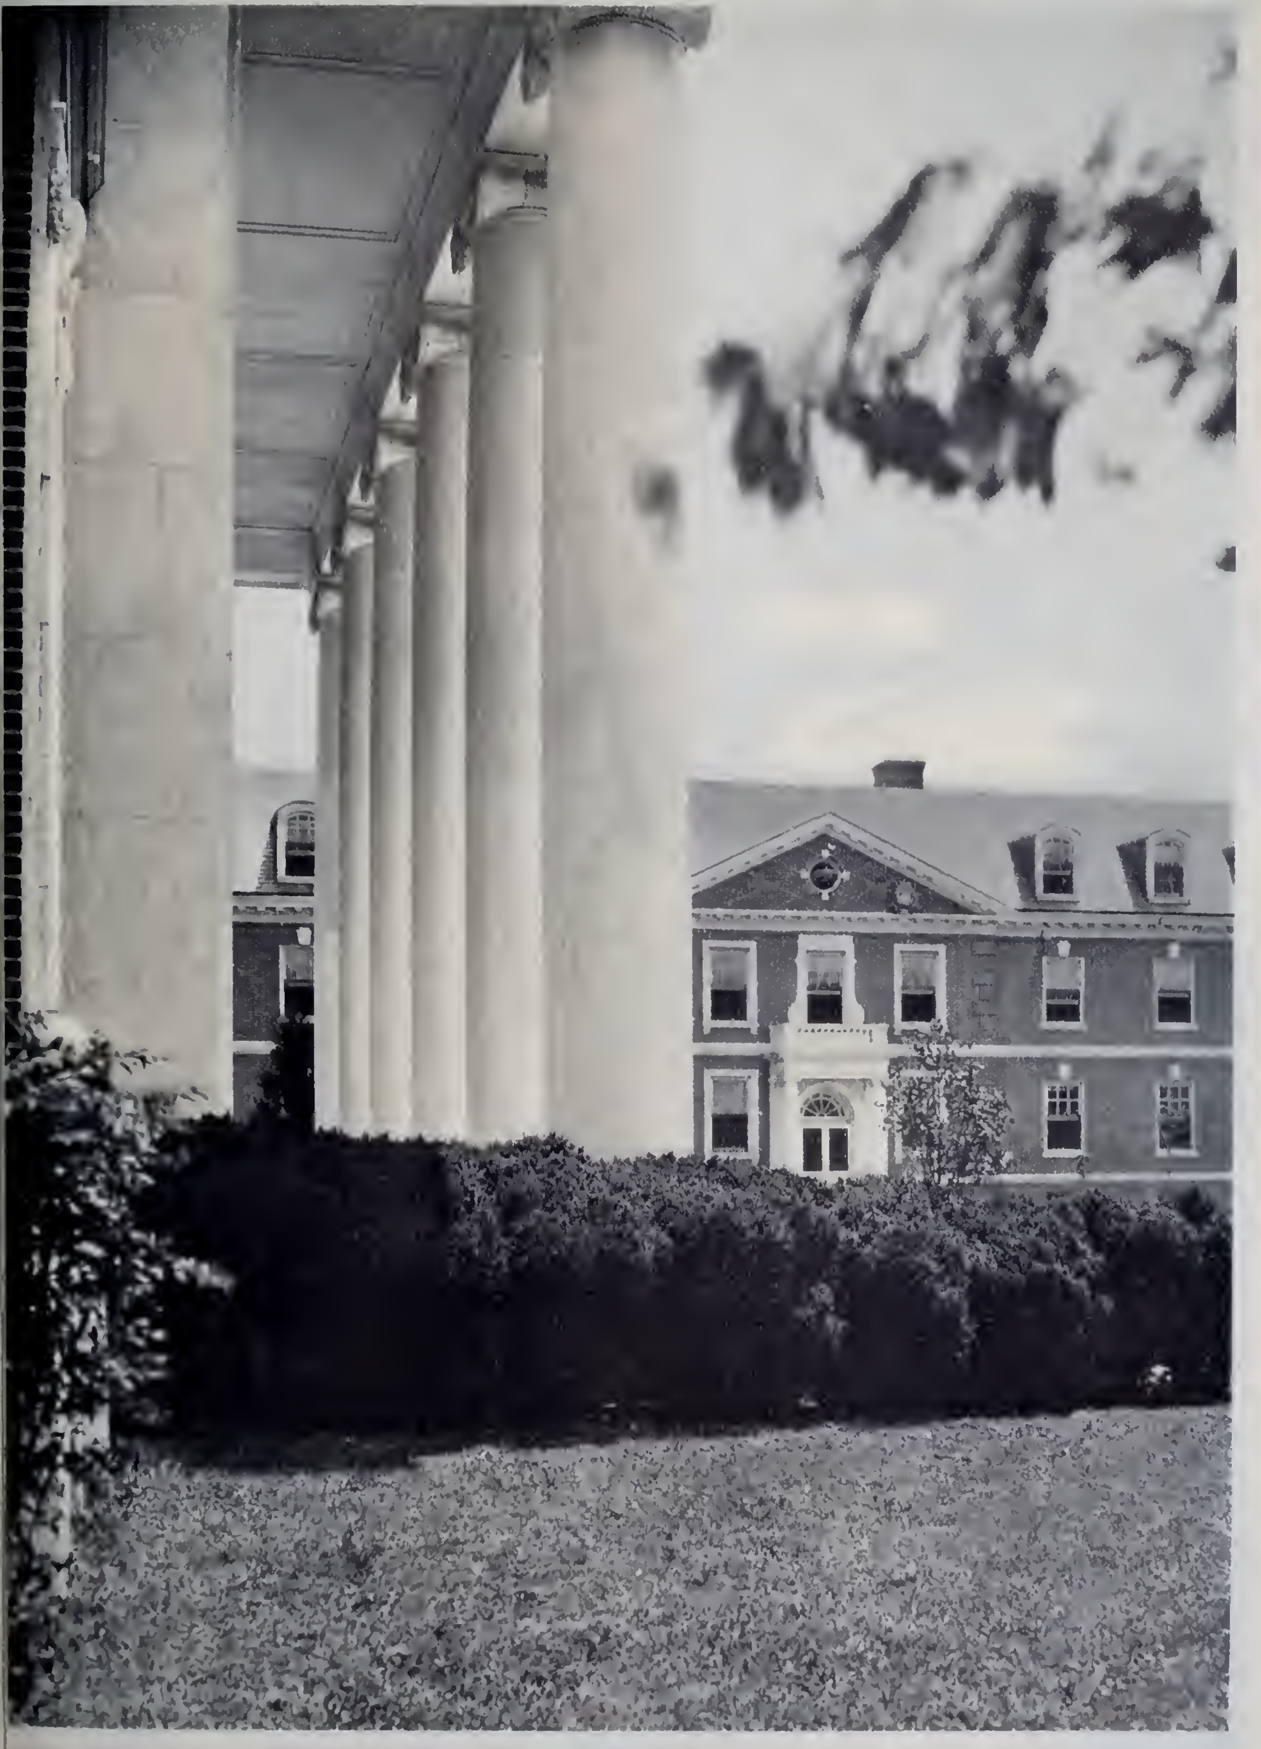
UNIVERSITY



"Art creates an atmosphere in which the proprieties, the amenities, and the virtues unconsciously grow."

"Books are yours,
Within whose silent chambers treasure lies
Preserved from age to age."

"Peace be within thy walls, and prosperity within thy palaces."

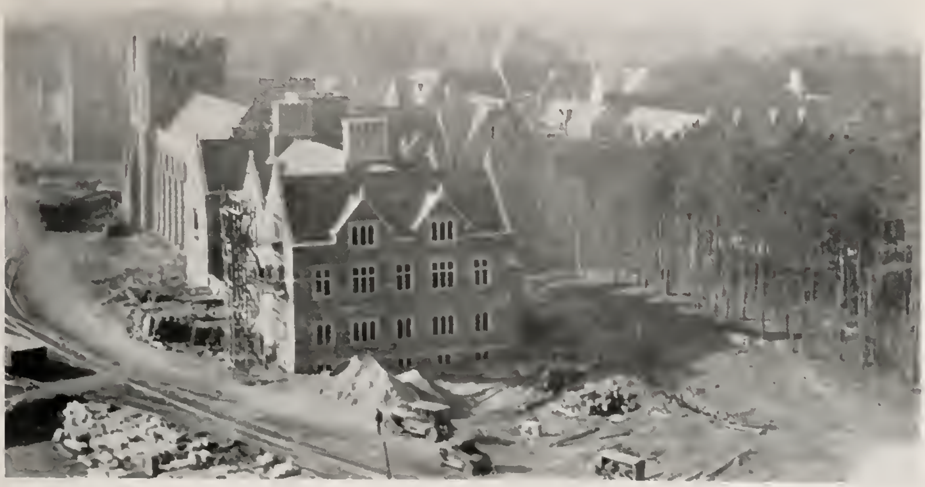
"A forted residence 'gainst the tooth of time,
And razure of oblivion."

"Their beauty makes
This shrine a feasting presence full of light."

"To him who, in the love of Nature, holds
Communion with her visible forms, she speaks
A various language."

" 'Such as I have I sow, it is not much,'
Said one who loved the Master of the field."

"He will make the face of heaven so fine
That all the world will be in love with night."



THE NEW DUKE CAMPUS AS SEEN FROM THE MEDICAL BUILDING

The Greater Duke University

We, the members of the university community, have had ever before us in the last few eventful years a picture of the "Greater Duke University." Long before we as a whole had the picture, it was formed as a humanitarian dream in the minds of a few leaders. After having been sketched as an educational ideal, it was given dimensional form by one of its creators. We, who have lived in that dream, who have seen that sketch, who have been surrounded by the mighty construction of that picture, have perhaps suffered in our appreciation by lack of perspective. The half-formed details, the raw, unfinished aspect of a gigantic achievement in the making, have blinded us partially to the beauty of that first dream. But, at last, our picture stands before us, save for the finishing touches, breath-taking in its loveliness and perfect in its symmetry. There remains but one achievement yet before us, before the "Greater Duke University" shall be. We ourselves must become part of the picture, for the university, like all works of art, is spiritual. It must consist of the souls of men, of seekers after the Truth which is Beauty. Then it will become a work of the ages.

DUKE UNIVERSITY

Duke is a new university, but it is being built round an old college. In Trinity College, which will always remain as a part of Duke University, we have a precious heritage—in its long educational record, its traditions, its ideals, its thousands of graduates. Through Trinity College, improved in every possible way, through the Woman's College, the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the Medical School, the Law School, the Schools of Religion and Forestry, and other schools that may be later on projected and all of them made as strong as it is possible to make them, Duke University will undertake to make its appropriate contributions to the educational service of the state and nation, and indeed is already entered upon its happy mission of helping (in words of the Indenture of Trust by which the University was created) "to develop our resources, increase our wisdom, and promote human happiness."

The Business Department

In these years of transition from a small institution to a great and broad university of colleges and graduate schools the tremendous task of the business staff is felt and seen everywhere, but perhaps little appreciated. The structural work of the business staff stands as the sturdily hewn pine timbers upon which so many pioneering efforts in North Carolina rest. We of the university can feel that the edifice of our dreams is not only inspiring and beautiful to behond, but that it is vigorous, hearty, and sound to its core.

Perhaps the most beloved member of the faculty is Robert Lee Flowers, the irresistible "Bobby," whose presence at all student activities infuses tradition and progress into the spirit of Alma Mater. Dr. Flowers, who is vice-president of the university in the business division, and secretary and treasurer, has headed the business staff of the school since 1910. His standard has ever been service in education, and he has borne it in many fields.

Trinity College

Nearly a century old, Trinity, the undergraduate college of arts and sciences for men of Duke University, is and probably always will be the very heart of the university. Its history, not so long as that of some other American colleges, reveals continuous progress from inconspicuous beginnings, with steadfast devotion to unselfish and noble ideals. It has had great struggles, brave adventures in defense of its faith and its hope, and enhearting achievements. Mother in spirit of thousands dead and living, it finally became the mother of Duke University, destined to become a great center for the profound, reverent, devoted search for truth and its dissemination. At the heart of this university, Trinity will always take gladly as its task the liberalizing and chastening of the minds and hearts of youth that they may wisely and nobly fill their appointed places in a world of work, hope, faith, and love.

Frank Clyde Brown
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.
Comptroller

The Work of the Comptroller

In the past five years the activities of the comptroller have been greatly increased by the duties required of this official in connection with the construction of the Greater Duke University. The position of comptroller has been competently filled by Dr. Frank C. Brown, who has played an important role in the building of the present plant, which will be occupied during the coming years by the Co-ordinate College for Women, and in the general development of the school.

At the beginning of the construction work upon the new campus Dr. Brown was placed in control, and he has been taxed to the utmost with the duties devolving from this work.

Nevertheless, the outlay of the campus and the magnificent Gothic structures to be found thereon bear living testimony to the ingenious handiwork of this man, who may be characterized as a fair example of a typical Southern gentleman.

The Co-ordinate College for Women

The opening of the college year in September will see the women established on their own campus. Wider opportunities of many kinds will open before them. They will have their own college life, richer in opportunities to develop independence and initiative, and at the same time will retain the advantages, both social and intellectual, of being a part of the larger university.

It is of the highest significance that no door is to be closed to women in the development of their intellectual life. All courses will be open to qualified women students, and, if certain ones are not given on the women's campus, the women may enter those on the larger campus. Graduates of the Woman's College, as graduates of all other colleges and schools within the university, will receive their degrees from Duke University.

But of equal significance is the hope which lies before us of developing on our own campus a college in which we may offer work of special interest to women and may experiment in our own peculiar fields. Alumnae, students, and all associated with the Woman's College must needs recognize the challenge.

The Summer School

The Duke University Summer School celebrated its tenth anniversary last summer. The summer of 1919 saw an enrollment of eighty-eight students in the single term of six weeks. Last summer there were enrolled seven hundred and fifty-eight students the first term and four hundred and forty-six the second term, in addition to two hundred and fourteen in the affiliated school at Lake Junaluska, and thirty-six in the Junaluska School of Religion, which is also affiliated with the university.

The chief purposes of the Summer School, as stated by Dr. Holland Helton, director, who is also head of the department of education and chairman of the faculty committee in charge of the various summer school interests of the university, are first, to utilize the university plant the full year as nearly as possible; second, to give mature and ambitious students opportunity for continuous work, and third, to co-operate in the teacher training programs of the Southern states. A noteworthy feature of the summer school enrollment for the past three years is the fact that over twenty per cent has consisted of graduate students drawn from twenty-four states.

WILLIAM HENRY GLASSON
Ph.B., Ph.D.
Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

Graduate School of Arts and Sciences

In September, 1916, President Few appointed a committee on graduate instruction to promote and supervise graduate work in Trinity College. During the World War, and immediately thereafter, there were few graduate students. But before long there was a marked increase both in graduate students and in advanced courses offered. The requirements for degrees were thoroughly revised and higher standards were established.

When Trinity College became Duke University in 1924 the graduate department had already made encouraging progress. In the academic year 1926-27 the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences was organized and Professor William H. Glasson was appointed dean. A council on graduate instruction was placed in charge of the new school. In recent years the growth of the graduate school has been rapid. The attendance has increased from forty-one in 1924-25 to one hundred and ninety in 1929-30. At commencement, 1929, there were conferred five Ph.D. degrees, sixty-three A.M. degrees, and five Master of Education degrees.

Elbert Russell
A.B., A.M., Ph.D.
Dean of the School of Religion

The School of Religion

The School of Religion is now in its fourth year. It opened in the fall of 1926 with eighteen students. The first semester of this year it enrolled one hundred and five, the largest enrollment of graduate students in any school of religion in the South. Yet no special effort has been made to secure students. It was important to secure a "seasoned" faculty and work out the organization before having a large student body to work with.

The school was organized under the able leadership of Dean Edmund D. Soper. In the fall of 1928 he was called to the presidency of Ohio Wesleyan University. Since then Dr. Elbert Russell has served as dean.

Next fall the school expects to move to the fine building on the new campus, which will accommodate two hundred and fifty students and which has a chapel, library, and social rooms, class rooms, and offices arranged for its special needs.

In addition to the regular class work of the school, most of the students engage in some form of regular church work. There are twenty-seven in charge of churches. Others assist in connection with Sunday schools or young people's activities. About seventy are under appointment of the Duke Foundation for rural church work during the summer vacations.

The School of Medicine

The opening of the Duke University School of Medicine in the fall of 1930 marks a new epoch of medical progress in the South, in that the school will be furnished with the most modern equipment and under the supervision of a faculty composed of eighty or more of the most competent leaders known to the medical world in their respective fields. This faculty, with its enrollment constantly increasing, is under the able jurisdiction of Dean W. C. Davison, who has been a member of Johns Hpokins Medical School for several years. A magnificent hospital will be operated in conjunction with the school, and should afford an increasing supply of clinical material for the students. The hospital, school of medicine, and residence of both nurses and students will be housed in one building, covering nearly six acres of floor space on each of its seven floors. The advantages which this school offers have already been recognized by the leading medical authorities as second to none.

Wilburt Cornell Davison
A.B., B.A., B.Sc., A.M., M.D.
Dean of the Medical School

The School of Law

After having been connected as a co-ordinate unit with Trinity College and Duke University for more than a quarter of a century, the Law School will begin anew with the completion of the new campus next fall. The acquisition of Justin H. Miller, who for a number of years has successfully headed the School of Law at the University of Southern California, has been widely heralded as a progressive step toward the development here of a greater school for the study of law. Mr. Miller is a legalist of eminent reputation, and he was chosen dean after careful consideration of men available throughout the country. Several other prominent teachers, excellently versed in the science of law, have been secured to complete the school's faculty of eleven men.

Since the death of Dean Samuel Fox Mordecai in December, 1927, the school has been without an official head, but its progress has been rapid even under this handicap. With the addition of such distinguished students of the law to its faculty, the school bids fair to soon become recognized as outstanding among the nation's leading institutions for legal training.

THE LAST ASSEMBLY

Alma Mater

By R. H. James, '24

Dear Old Duke, Thy name we sing,
To thee our voices raise—they raise—
To the our anthems ring
In everlasting praise.

Our fate may far us bear,
We'll ever turn to thee,
Our Alma Mater dear.

COACHING STAFF, 1929-1930

Back row: Turbyville, Coombs, Buchheit, Baker, Steiner

All athletics during 1929-1930 were under the direction of Jimmy DeHart, head coach at Duke. Coach DeHart assumes charge of football and also performs the duties of Director of Athletics for the University. Coach DeHart is a former Pittsburgh star, having played half there for four years, with time out during the World War.

George Buchheit, cross-country and track coach, also acts as Assistant Director of Athletics. Coach Bucky is a University of Illinois man, and was a track and basketball star while there. Tex Tilson, former Washington and Lee star, is assistant coach of football and also head mentor of wrestling and boxing, which is a full-time job for any man! Eddie Cameron, Duke's wonder basketball coach, is also a former Washington and Lee man. Eddie has turned out runners-up in the Southern Conference basketball tournament for the past two years. He also coaches freshman football. Jack Coombs, former Philadelphia Athletics star, took charge of baseball in 1929 for the first time, and turned out a Southern Champion team.

Lenox "Doc" Baker, former trainer at Tennessee, came to Duke this year to act as trainer while pursuing studies in medicine at U. N. C. Emerson "Curly" Saunders, another Washington and Lee athlete, was assistant coach of freshman football, and coach of freshman wrestling and boxing this year. Roy Hunter and Harry Hollingsworth, former Duke football stars, were assistant coaches of freshmen football and basketball this year. There was no regular swimming coach this year due to the fact that Coach Herman Steiner had to leave school on account of bad health. Herb O'Keef acted as student coach.

Duke's First Year in the Southern Conference

By Herb O'Keef, Athletic Editor

When Duke was admitted to the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference at the Christmas meeting in 1928, few persons had any idea of the record which the Duke teams would make. It was just taken for granted that Duke would prove to be just another member of the Conference, with not much chance of doing much in an athletic way for a few years to come. Well, as all followers of sport now know, exactly the opposite has happened.

To start things off with a big bang, the 1929 basketball team journeyed down to the tournament in Atlanta rated only as a possible dark horse. When the smoke had cleared up, it was found that the Devils had defeated the pre-tournament favorites, the University of North Carolina Tar Heels and had ended the season as runners-up to N. C. State for the championship. Bill Werber and Joe Croson received all-Southern mention, something unusual for such a new team in the Conference.

Coach James DeHart
Director of Athletics

Coach Tex Tilson's wrestlers also came through in the Conference. Although no actual tournament was held, the records of the various teams showed that Duke and V. M. I. had tied for first place. Applewhite, Starnes, and Captain Jones were named as all-Southern wrestlers for the 1929 season. In the annual boxing tournament, Duke placed one all-Southern man, "Shack" Martin, fighting in the 115-pound class.

When the baseball season rolled around for 1929, Coach Jack Coombs put a team on the diamond that easily won the Conference championship. A total of eleven games were played with Conference teams, and the Blue Devils came off winners in each of them. In the final game, deciding the championship for Duke, the Devils met their ancient rivals, the Carolina team, and won easily. "Lefty" Jenkins, pitcher, Bill Werber, shortstop, and Henry Kistler, first baseman, all were named as all-Southern men.

With the coming of 1930, the basketeers again went down to the tournament in Atlanta. They repeated their performance of 1929 and placed second in the tourney. At the beginning of the tournament, Duke, Kentucky, Alabama, and Washington and Lee were rated as favorites. All the pre-season dope worked out perfectly, and in the final game for the championship, Duke met Alabama. The Devils were tired out from a hard game with Kentucky of the night before, and fell before Alabama in a close game. Bill Werber and Harry Councilor were named on the first all-Southern team, Councilor being named as captain. Joe Croson again made all-Southern mention, being selected as second team center.

In connection with the basketball tournament, the first annual conference swimming meet was run off. The Duke swimmers went down to Atlanta rated only as possible dark horses, and then came through to win third place honors over Virginia, Georgia, and Clemson, with Georgia Tech and Florida taking first and second places. Captain Baughman, O'Keef, and Smathers placed in the tournament.

Thus one can easily see what a record Duke has made in one short year. And, what is best, things look better for succeeding years than ever before.

STADIUM OPENING, DUKE VS. PITTSBURGH, OCTOBER 5, 1929

Football, 1929

Judged by a record of wins and losses, the 1929 football season at Duke was not much of a success. The Blue Devils had a schedule of ten games, losing six, while winning four. It would be an injustice, however, to judge the season's record simply by the won and lost column. Duke's schedule is acknowledged to be one of the hardest in the East. The Blue Devils were up North on three consecutive Saturdays, meeting three of the best teams in the country, Navy, Villanova, and Boston College. Then, too, the team was handicapped by injuries. Taking all facts into consideration, one cannot truthfully say that the season was an unqualified success. It was not. But, on the other hand, one cannot say that the season was the ignominious failure that some writers claim for it, for the Blue Devils went down fighting every time.

DUKE, 19; MERCER, 6

In the opening game of the season, Coach DeHart carried his Blue Devils down to Macon, Ga., where they met the Mercer Bears. Duke had little difficulty in winning from them, due mainly to Sam Buie's great passing, with Nick Warren on the receiving end of most of Buie's heaves. The Duke line attack was stopped by Mercer well, though. Captain Henry Kistler injuried his knee in this game, however, an injury from which he did not recover all season.

PITT, 52; DUKE, 7

In the stadium opening game the Duke team fell before a superior Pitt team in a game that was packed with thrills coming from long runs by Rooney and Uansa of Pitt and spectacular passes by Buie of Duke. Before an estimated crowd of 25,000, Buie did some good passing. Duke's only score came late in the game when "Flop" Beaver, sophomore halfback, got one of Buie's passes and slipped past Pitt's secondary defense to score. Duke made seventeen first downs to Pitt's twenty.

NAVY, 45; DUKE, 13

After taking a week's layoff after the Pitt game, Duke then journeyed to Annapolis for the third annual Duke-Navy game. As seems to be the custom now at Duke, all the students who could find any possible bumming way out of Durham went with the team for the game. For the first half the score read: Duke, 13; Navy, 12. In the second half, however, freshened Navy team came back strong in the last half to pile up thirty-three more points and win from Duke conclusively. Russ, Kistler, Davis and Warren starred for Duke, while Kohlhas, Spring, Binns, Williams and Toth were outstanding for Navy.

VILLANOVA, 58; DUKE, 12

Following the excursion to Navy, the Blue Devils went back up North the following Saturday, this time to Philadelphia to meet the Villanova Wildcats. The Blue Devils again battled the opposing team to a standstill in the first half, the score being 6-6 at the end of the second period. In the last half, however, the Philadelphians came back strong to pile up fifty-two points and win from Duke, 58-12. In this game Buie again made a name for himself as a passer.

BOSTON, 20; DUKE, 12

Making their third trip up North in as many Saturdays, the Devils meandered on up to Boston after the affair at Villanova to take on the Boston College team. All the dope pointed to a conclusive win for Boston. Boston had tied up Villanova, 7-7, and Villanova had beaten Duke by a large score. The dope was upset, however, and Duke played Boston to a standstill, the final score being only 20-12 in Boston's favor. Don Carpenter, Duke tackle, broke into the scoring column in this game, taking an intercepted pass for a seventy-three-yard run to score. O. C. Godfrey, playing his last year at fullback for Duke, was the star of the day. Adkins, at center, also played a great game.

DUKE, 32; LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY, 6

The biggest upset game of the season for Duke was their 32-6 win over the L. S. U. Tigers. The Louisiana boys came up here with a highly rated team. They had won every game up to then, with the exception of a terrible lacing at the hands of Arkansas, and all the dope pointed to another defeat for Duke. Playing the greatest game of the season, however, the Devils had a big edge over the Tigers and scored in all four periods to win easily. "Ock" Godfrey was the leading scorer of the day, hitting the L. S. U. line for three touchdowns, while Don Carpenter scored again when he picked up a blocked punt and ran for a touchdown. Bill Murray, playing for any length of time for the first time this year, showed up well. He carried the ball on line plays right up to the L. S. U. goal line, then waded over for a score. Duke took a day off from the forward passing business, most of their gains being through the line. Buie, Murray, Adkins, Godfrey, Carpenter and Robeson starred for Duke.

DUKE, 19; N. C. STATE, 12

After beating L. S. U. so completely, the Devils went into a terrific slump against the weakened Wolfpack from State College. Doped to beat State by a large score, Duke only managed to come off the victor by a one touchdown margin.

Duke started off the game in great style. Only about three minutes of play had gone by when the Blue Devils, led by Godfrey, managed to slip over their first score. After that touchdown Duke went into a terrible slump, and what is more, stayed in that slump all during the game. Stout, Jordan, Melton, Edmondson and Johnson were best for State, while Adkins, Carpenter, Godfrey, Brewer, Murray and Rosky showed up best for Duke.

DUKE, 20; WAKE FOREST, 0

In what sports writers described as an ice hockey match, on the following Saturday after their win over State, the Devils took Wake Forest into the camp by a 20-0 score. The game was played before the smallest crowd of the year, estimated at 500, and in the sleet. The Wake Forest bunch showed up better than the score would indicate, two of Duke's scores being made on breaks. Bill Murray was the star of the game from the Duke point of view. When sent in as a substitute in the third quarter, he made a 40-yard run to put the ball within scoring distance, Godfrey carrying it over on the next play. "Kid" Brewer showed the most consistent football of the day, hitting the strong Wake Forest line for gain after gain. Buie's punting was also good. Covington, Benton, Webb and Williams showed up well.

DAVIDSON, 13; DUKE, 12

In the last annual Duke-Davidson Thanksgiving Day game, the Davidson Wildcats managed to out-trick the Duke Devils and win by a one-point margin. The game, which was played over at Davidson, was a decided upset to the dope bucket, as Duke was slated to win easily. Captain Thad Brock, Davidson end, nominated himself for the football hall of fame when he ran 102 yards against Duke in this game. He took the ball on a fake kick formation, eight yards back of his own goal line, and ran it to the Duke six-yard line, where Adkins caught him from behind. Davidson took the ball over from there. McCall, Davidson back, scored the other Wildcat touchdown on a 45-yard run. Brewer, Buie, Rosky and Adkins stood out for Duke.

CAROLINA, 48; DUKE, 7

In the final game of the season, and the most important from the point of view of the Duke man, the great Tarheel team walked over a fighting bunch of Blue Devils to win, 48-7. The score will not tell how Duke did fight; it is simply indicative of the superior power and football ability of the Tarheels. Mel Peeler, playing his last game at end for Duke, was the outstanding defensive player of the day. Brewer and Godfrey did good work at the fullback position, Murray played well at half, though slowed up by lack of interference. Branch, Captain Farris, Ward, Holt and Fenton Adkins showed up well for Carolina. Emory Adkins, brother of Fenton, and Duke, center, also played a good game. Lee "Chin" Cole, playing his last few minutes for Duke at end, suffered a broken collar bone less than ten seconds before the final whistle, this injury ringing down the curtain on Chin's long athletic career at Duke. Captain Kistler, "Nick" Warren, Mel Peeler, O. C. Godfrey, Sam Buie, Bob Thorne, and "Chin" Cole played their last game for Duke against Carolina that day.

"RED" DAVIS ELECTED CAPTAIN FOR 1930

At a meeting of the varsity men after the last game, Lee "Red" Davis, stellar lineman for the past two years, was elected to captain the Blue Devils during 1930.

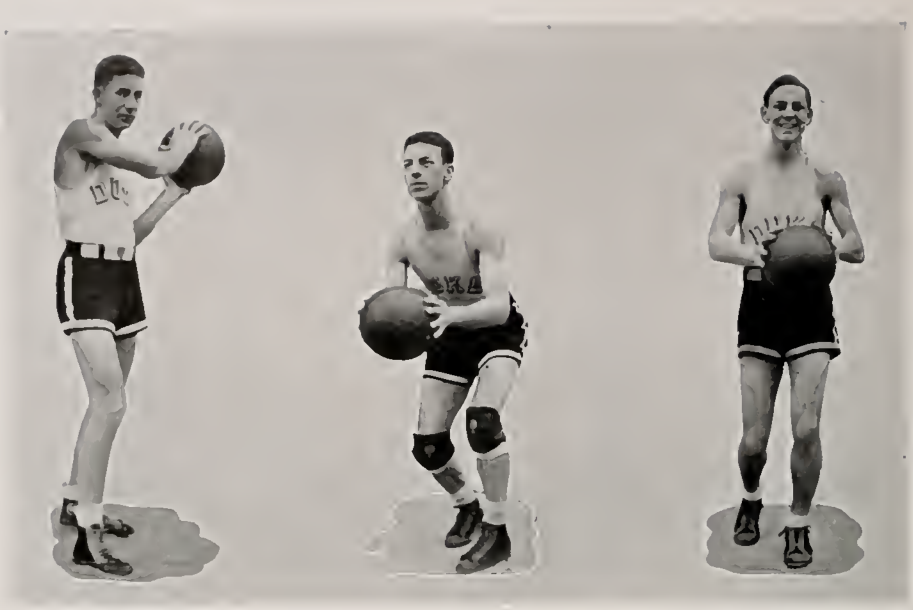
Basketball, 1930

Undisputed State Champions, runners-up in the Southern Conference Tournament, with the laudable record of eighteen victories out of twenty collegiate games, briefly sums up the outcome of the 1930 basketball season—the most successful that a Duke quint has ever had. Nation-wide interest was centered on the fleet Blue Devils as they marched through the regular season taking the scalps of every opponent, Washington and Lee the lone exception.

From the very start, the Devil quint proved itself to be of championship caliber and rapid-fire scoring ability, when the Durham and Raleigh "Y's" were taken into camp by decisive scores. To set a high scoring record, the Devils hit the basket for 103 points to thoroughly trounce the Greensboro "Y."

Opening the collegiate season, Duke on its first northern trip, trimmed the University of Virginia, Maryland, and Navy in a row. These games only served to prove the ability of the Blue Devils. During their stay at the Naval Academy, they were classed as one of the fastest quints ever to set foot on Navy soil.

Returning home, Duke lost to Washington and Lee in one of the fastest games seen on the local court. It is generally admitted that the Blue Devils were not up to par in their floor work and shooting. However, "Chalky" Councilor lived up to his name, "Hell on Wheels."



GARBER WERBER SHAW

In rapid succession, the Devils took the court of each member of the big five by impressive scores. Wake Forest was the first to taste the dregs of defeat, but State College threw a scare into the Duke camp by holding them to a score of 35-31.

The victory in the "Tin Can" over the Flying Phantoms of Chapel Hill afforded the Duke fans an opportune chance to increase their lung capacity. The entire quint clicked like a well oiled machine, and the Devils looked like world beaters.

State College was defeated a second time, followed by two wins over Davidson and South Carolina.

The Blue Devils thoroughly demonstrated their speed and basketball ability when Loyola of Chicago was trimmed by the score of 30 to 27. Fans in this part of the country were treated to the greatest game ever played in Memorial Gym. Loyola, led by their star center, Murphy, came to Durham with a string of impressive victories covering a period of two years. However, they could not cope with the speed of the Devils and had to be content with the small end of a close score. To designate a star would be impossible. It would be more appropriate to say it was a star quintet, and it shone forth brilliantly, too.

After gaining national recognition by defeating Loyola, the Devil quint again defeated the lads from Chapel Hill. With sweet revenge on the Generals of Washington and Lee and Davidson, the Duke team finished the season in a blaze of glory before entering the Southern Conference Tourney.

As tournament time approached, sports editors were predicting Duke as the favorite quint by virtue of its foes. With such men as Captain Boley Farley, Bill Werber, all-Southern guard, Joe Croson, blond center, "Chalky" Councilor, who captivated the Atlanta fans last year, and George Rogers with his dead side shots, Duke's hopes were soaring high.

As proof of the fact that Duke, without a doubt, is one of the conference basketball leaders, read the following. It comes from Burton Shipley, coach of the University of Maryland quintet:

"The team that beats Duke will win the Southern Conference basketball tourney, which opens in Atlanta on February 28.

COUNCILOR ROGERS CAPTAIN FARLEY

"Duke has the best balanced team we have played this year and also has tournament temperament and a clean style of play which is so important in the title event."

The Devils started tournament play as predicted when Louisiana State University tasted defeat by the score of 43 to 34. Bill Werber further demonstrated to Atlanta fans that his name should be at the top of Southern basketball stars. Duke was leading by a comfortable margin a few moments before half-time when Joe Croson, who was suffering from an infected mouth, was taken from the game. L. S. U. crept up but never could cope with the fleetness of the Duke quint.

On Saturday night, the Devils eliminated the Yellow Jackets from Georgia Tech. "Chalky" Councilor clinched an all-Southern berth by his brilliant floor work. The midget forward turned the all-Georgia Tech crowd of Atlanta into a half-way Duke crowd by his outstanding performance. Time and time again, Councilor single-handed took the ball down the floor, eluded the guards, and looped his one-handed overhead shot.

Monday night found Duke and Kentucky paired in what turned out to be the best game of the tournament. The entire Blue Devil quint performed like demons, with Joe Croson recovered from his illness to lead the scoring. After the smoke of the conflict died away, many writers stated that the championship game should have been played when Duke defeated Kentucky.

The Devils, going into the finals against Alabama, found themselves tired and worn out after the strenuous game of the previous night. Alabama contented itself with a slow passing game much to the displeasure of the Devils whose deadly weapon is speed. Disappointedly, Duke was nosed out by a 24 to 31 score. However, she set a record for being the runner-up team for two consecutive years. Two members of the team were awarded all-Southern berths. Bill Werber, guard, and "Chalky" Councilor, forward. Returning home, these two were welcomed with the all-State title along with their teammate, Joe Croson; incidentally, all three of these boys are from the same city, Washington, D. C.

Such success has never been witnessed by a basketball quintet at Duke, and Coach Cameron and his Devils deserve praise in a measure far beyond what the student body is able to contribute.

Captain-Elect Croson Coach Cameron Captain-Elect Rogers

Alma Mater bids farewell to Captain Boley Farley, Bill Werber, Harry Councilor, Donald Burch, and Bob Thorne. The hardwood floor in Memorial Gym will look bare next year without these boys performing their stellar roles. However, with such men as Croson and Rogers, co-captains of next season, Garber, Shaw, and a group of strong reserves along with excellent material from an undefeated freshman team, the outlook for the future appears bright.

Following is the record made by the Blue Devil quint, both in its regular schedule and the Southern Conference Tournament:

Baseball, 1929

The 1929 edition of the Blue Devils on the diamond went through what is perhaps the most successful season ever enjoyed by any Duke team—football, baseball, basketball, or any other sport. Meeting some of the leading teams in the East, including Penn State, University of Pennsylvania, Villanova, Navy, University of North Carolina, and North Carolina State, Coach Coombs and his men came through in fine style to win thirteen games, lose five, while four games were rained out.

Coach Coombs, former Athletic star and world's series hero, took charge of coaching the Duke baseball teams for the first time last year. The success of his teams, both varsity and freshman, speak enough for his ability as a coach. The varsity easily won the state and Southern championships, and the frosh took the state championship in a walk.

The winning of the Southern Conference championship gave Duke its first official, clear Southern Conference title. To be sure, other teams had won Southern championships before, but this was the first clear title won since Duke's entry into the Conference. The 1929 wrestling team also claimed the title, but their claim was disputed by V. M. I.

Led by Captain Dayton Dean, star second baseman, the Blue Devils made such a record that scouts from the big leagues were on hand at most of the final games to watch the team and to look over its stars—and there were plenty of stars. Captain Dean, a junior during the 1929 season, is one of the first major sports captains at Duke University from the junior class.

Three of the stars of this championship team—"Lefty" Jenkins, Bill Werber, and Henry Kistler—easily made the mythical all-Southern baseball selection. Jenkins, little southpaw hurler, made himself so conspicuous by his work on the mound that he was rated as the most outstanding college pitcher in the South. His hitting also was so good as to cause comment. Bill Werber, all-Southern basketball man, also played such consistent and flashy ball at shortstop that he easily made the honor selection. He was also one of the leading hitters of the team, both in extra bases garnered and in hitting percentage. Henry Kistler, captain of the 1930 football team and star first-sacker, won his all-Southern rating by his ability to hit, both frequently and far. Hitting over .400, Henry led the Conference both in percentage and in home runs.

Old Man Rain, the bane of every baseball player's existence, played quite a part in the 1929 season. To begin with, the opening game with Penn State was rained out. Not satisfied with having messed up plans for the first game, Jupe Pluvius came through nobly to rain out three successive games on the Northern trip. Within three days games with Princeton, New York University, and Fordham were rained out, this little rest making more of a pleasure trip out of the Northern expedition than the coaches had figured on.

The Blue Devils got off to a slow start when they dropped the second game to Penn State, 6-4, after having won the first, 2-1; dropped the third to the University of Pennsylvania, 5-1; and the fourth to University of Pennsylvania, 7-6. After this series of losses, however, Duke hit a winning streak, taking the next game from Washington and Lee by a score of 13-0. In this game the Duke hitters went on a rampage, hitting the horsehide to all parts of the adjoining country.

In the next game, played with Wake Forest over there, Jenkins, star Duke southpaw, and "Lefty" Lanning, star Wake Forest hurler, staged the prettiest pitchers' duel of the year. Jenkins received slightly the better support, and Duke came out on top by a score of 2-1. Duke won the next four games, played with Wofford, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, and Davidson, easily.

In the next game, played with Carolina on Hanes Field, the Blue Devils outhit and outplayed their traditional rivals from the Hill to win by a score of 9-6. Needless to say, a win over Carolina put the team and the student body in a very agreeable frame of mind.

On a scheduled six-game Northern trip the Blue Devils played three games, with University of Pennsylvania, Villanova, and Navy, while three others, with Princeton, New York University, and Fordham, were rained out. Duke dropped the opener of the Northern series to University of Pennsylvania, 9-4, but took the second from Villanova in a close contest, 3-2. On the next three days, rain kept the team indoors, and games for those days had to be called off. As the final game of the trip, Duke lost to the Navy Middies, 6-4.

After returning from the invasion of the North the Blue Devils hitched up with the Virginia Cavaliers in a one-sided set-to, from which Coombs and his men emerged winners by a 12-2 score. Meeting another Conference team next, Washington and Lee, the Coombsmen took their second win of the year from the Generals, this time by a 5-3 score. These two victories left only North Carolina State and Carolina to be met and vanquished to give Duke a clear title to the championship of the Southland.

On a certain eventful Friday the Dukesters journeyed to Raleigh to take on State College to determine the winners of the Big Five championship of North Carolina. A win over State would give Duke the title, regardless of how the final game with Carolina, on the next day, came out. What happened is now history, and important history for Duke athletics. In a fast game, with "Lefty" Jenkins at the helm, the Blue Devils completely mastered State to the tune of an 8-3 score.

On the day after winning from State on Friday, Duke went over to Chapel Hill to take on the Tar Heels for the final game of the season. This game was one of the type about which novels are written. The last game of the year; traditional rivals opposing; Duke slated to lose; playing on hostile ground, and the championship of the South at stake. What a stage on which to play the last game! The Tar Heels started the scoring in the first inning when they nicked Jean Belue, Duke pitcher, for four runs. Belue had started this game with a bad finger, since he was the only one available. When he was knocked out of the box, only one pitcher was left, "Lefty" Jenkins. Jenkins had pitchhed nine innings against State the day before, and was not in the best shape to pitch. He was sent in, however, and for nine more innings he worked out perhaps the prettiest game of his career. He retired Carolina in that momentous first inning after they had three men on base and no outs. For the remaining eight innings he pitched superb ball, allowing the Tar Heels only one run. In the meantime his teammates went on a hitting rampage and pounded the ball over Emerson Field to pile up eight runs, a margin of three over Carolina, and enough to bring a Southern title to Duke.

Track and Field, 1929

The Blue Devil tracksters started off the 1929 season with a bang by going to the Virginia Invitation meet where they placed second with a total of 22 points. Virginia won the meet.

The high light of the entire season lies in the fact that the four-mile relay team won the annual Georgia Tech Relays held in Atlanta. This team, composed of Ashworth, Simon, Doxey and Woodward broke the former Southern record of 18 minutes 36 seconds and set a new one at 18 minutes 17 2-5 seconds. All the leading teams in the South were entered in this relay. This same team was entered in the annual Penn relays held in Philadelphia and they came off with ninth place honors.

In the annual Southern Intercollegiate Conference meet held in Birmingham, Johnny Woodward ran an exceptionally fast mile in 4 minutes 23 3-5 seconds over a soggy track and in the rain to take first place for Duke. This first is significant in that that mile run was the first track event to be entered in the Conference tournament by a Duke man. Woodward also placed fourth in the 880-yard run. Fred Brummitt, captain of the 1929 team, also placed in this meet, taking a second in the discus and a fourth in the shot putt. Duke placed seventh in the meet with 13 points.

Duke's luck in the outdoor track season did not hold out so well, the Devils losing four dual meets. The first one of the year was with N. C. State, the Devils losing out by a 59-67 score. In the second meet, with V. P. I., Duke again lost, this time by 56-70. The Tar Heels from Carolina won out over Duke in the third one by 33½-92½, while Washington and Lee took the last meet of the year by 53-73.

In the annual state meet, held in Greensboro, Duke placed fourth, losing out to N. C. State for third place by only 2-5 of a point. The team scores in this meet were: U. N. C., 65.8; Davidson, 30.5; N. C. State, 28.5; Duke, 28.3; and Wake Forest, 11.0.

Lettermen for 1929 track were: Fred Brummitt, captain, R. C. Ashworth, Coke Candler, J. E. Doxey, Chess Freeman, J. W. Futrell, Tom Roberts, captain-elect, Bill Simon, J. L. Woodward, F. C. Turner and Ogden Bruton, manager.

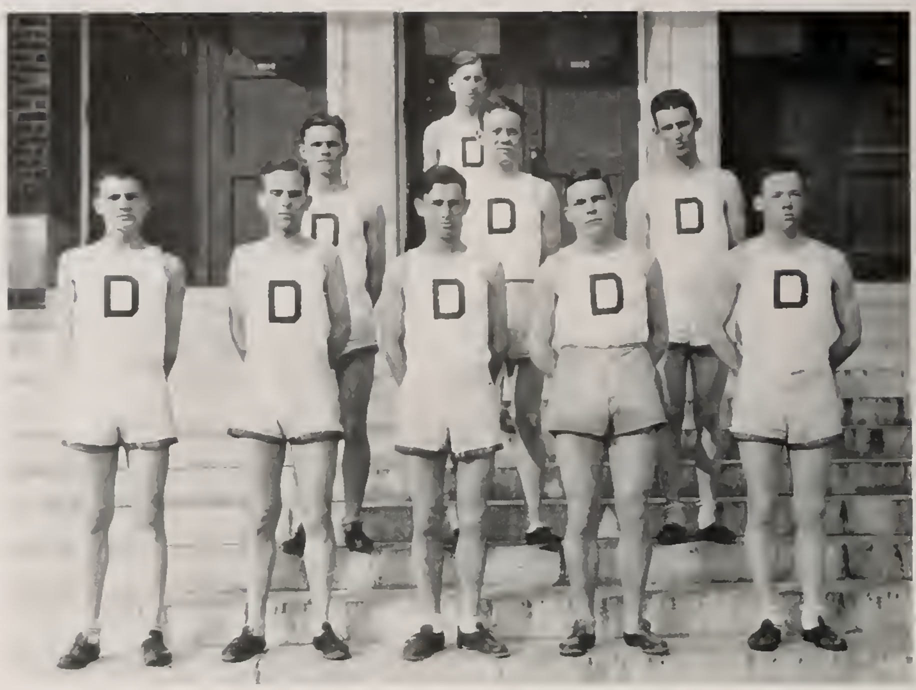
MINOR SPORTS



CROSS-COUNTRY SQUAD, 1929

Back row: ROBBINS

Cross-Country

With only two veterans, Captain Bill Simon and Jim Heizer, left as a nucleus, Coach Bucheit developed a strong cross-country team. Besides these two men, the team was composed of Flinton, Grimes, Robbins, Howard, Lawrence, Gordon, Hardin, and Starnes. This team was crippled at times by injuries, however, so that it was not often that the full strength was available, but in spite of this the team finished well in the front.

The first meet, against Navy, was won by the Middies, but Simon was the individual star, and turned in a remarkable race by breaking the Navy course record, which had been standing for ten years. Jim Heizer came in fifth, and the rest of the team showed up well.

In the dual meet with Carolina the Tarheel harriers won by a close score. Simon came in second, and Heizer again placed fifth.

Washington and Lee was easily defeated, Simon and Heizer coming in first and second, respectively, and Hardin, Grimes, Flinton, Gordon, and Robbins finishing well up. In the last dual meet against North Carolina State, Heizer and Simon fought it out all the way for first place. They both ran magnificently and finished in a tie. Flinton, Lawrence, and Grimes also ran well, and, together with Gordon, Robbins, and Hardin, enabled the Blue Devils to win.

The Southern Conference run was held at Chapel Hill under the worst weather conditions imaginable. It was a cold, icy day, and the ground was hard and slippery. Ten teams were entered, with seventy-five men running the five-mile course. The individual winner was Bob Young, of University of Georgia, and second place was taken by Bill Simon. Heizer came in a good tenth. The meet was won by the Carolina team; Duke took seventh.

The loss of four men from the previous year's Southern champs team, and injuries at the beginning of the season, was hard to overcome, but with a veteran team next year the Blue Devil harriers should recover their championship form. Bill Simon and Jim Heizer, stars of this year's team, will be back, better than ever, and the other lettermen. Flinton, whose consistent good work all season stood out, will also return. The feature of the season, and one of the most notable of intercollegiate track events, was the wonderful race run by Simon when he broke the Navy course record.

Second row: Williams, Day, Adkins, Lemmons, Hughes
Third row: Gentry, Harrill, Thomas, Wall, Gamble
Front row: Warren, Peery, Davis, Fergus, Captain Starnes

Wrestling, 1930

The Duke wrestlers, handicapped by the loss of all but one of the 1929 team, Captain Ralph Starnes, went up against a hard schedule, coming off victorious in two matches, against Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Davidson College. Captain Starnes, Southern champion for 1928 and 1929, won every match in which he wrestled, and would have gone far in the Conference tournament had he not been declared ineligible at the last moment.

The Duke grapplers opened their season against Princeton University at Princeton on January 11. The Tigers won out, with Starnes the only Blue Devil to win out. Peery, 165-pounder for Duke, was ineligible at this meet, but wrestled in an exhibition match and threw the Princeton grappler. On the following Monday, January 13, the Dukesters met Franklin and Marshall at Lancaster, Pa. They fared better in this meet, with Gamble and Starnes winning time decisions in the 115 and 135-pound classes, and Hughes winning by a fall in the unlimited division.

On February 8, the Devils again went north, this time to meet the Navy wrestlers. Again Starnes was the only man to win out, though the Devils all put up game fights. On February 15, Duke met Davidson at Durham and came through with a 17-9 win over the Presbyterians. Gamble, Gentry, Starnes, and Wall, in the first four weight groups for Duke, won time decisions, giving Duke a 12-point lead. In the next three weights, however, Davidson won out, making a score of 12-9. With the meet hanging on the heavy bout, Louis Hughes won out by a fall over Raker of Davidson and gave the meet to Duke. On February 19, the grapplers met N. C. State in the Duke gym and lost a heartbreaking match to them by a 14½-13½ score. Two falls, one time decision and a draw enabled State to win out.

Duke took the second win of the season when they downed V. P. I., 19-13, at Blacksburg. Starnes and Adkins won out by falls, while Gamble, Knowles and Peery won by time decisions. On this same trip, the wrestlers lost to Washington and Lee by a 22-6 score. Gamble and Captain Starnes won for Duke in the 115 and 135 pound classes respectively.

Peery, 165-pound grappler, made the best showing for Duke in the Conference wrestling tournament when he went to the finals, losing out in the last round by a close time decision.

BOXING SQUAD, 1930

Middle row: Wentz, Rankin, Miller, Bolich, Matheson
Front row: Warren, Carper, Hyatt, Captain Saint Amand, Starnes, Edwards

Boxing, 1930

Although composed of a number of new men, the Duke boxing team had a highly successful season, winning five dual matches and losing only one, to U. N. C., one of the best teams in the South. The team was made up of the veterans, Captain St. Amand, Carper, Warren, Martin. The new faces on the team were Starnes, captain of the wrestling team, Mark Edwards, Matheson, Hyatt, sophomores, and Wentz and Miller, substitutes.

In the first match, at South Carolina, the Devils won by a score of 5-2. Mark Edwards scored a K. O. in the 115-pound class; Captain St. Amand lost a close decision; Starnes, Matheson, Warren, and Carper won, and Hyatt lost.

University of N. C. were the next opponents, and the veteran Carolina team beat the Blue Devils, 5-2. Every match was close, and the Duke pugs fought hard. John Carper came through with the Duke points.

In the second match with South Carolina at the local gym, the boxers showed their admirers what they could do and beat the Gamecocks without the loss of a match. Everyone was in fine form and showed their supporters that Duke was represented by a powerful team in the squared ring.

The University of Virginia team was met next in one of the most exciting matches seen in the Duke gym. Edwards won, and Martin in the 125-pound class fought a sensational battle and scored a K. O. in the third round. Miller, fighting in Starnes' place, won, and Warren scored an easy victory. It looks as if a clean sweep, but Carper, fighting in the 175-pound class and outweighed by fifteen pounds, lost the decision after having his opponent on the verge of a K. O. in the first round. This was another hair-raising, nerve-wracking battle. Both men received fearful punishment, but gamely fought to the end. It was Carper's first loss in three years of varsity boxing. Don Hyatt in the heavyweight bout won by a K. O.

Captain Saint Amand

"Shack" Martin

"Johnnie" Carper

The Devil mittmen kept up their winning streak by licking V. P. I., 6-1, and Washington and Lee, 4-3, and finished the regular season in such style as to make the Duke fighters feared in the Southern Conference tournament.

Duke suffered a severe blow to her chances by the inability of Edwards, a consistent winner all year, to take part in the tournament due to an injury. "Shack" Martin, however, took off enough weight to fight in his place and defend his title. "Shack" fought his way through to the finals and appeared to be on the way to a second title, but was beaten by a narrow margin, only after putting up his customary game fight. St. Amand, fighting his last bouts for Duke, reached the semi-finals, amde a game bid for the 125-pound title, but lost by a narrow margin. John Carper, the K. O. king, also fighting his last for Duke, reached the semi-finals in the 160-pound class, after winning his preliminary fights in easy fashion. Another Duke man reached the semi-finals when Hyatt fought his way through in the heavyweight class. Hyatt's showing was noteworthy considering the fact that it was his first year of boxing. With two more years ahead of him he should bring a title to Duke before he hangs up his gloves. In the 145-pound class, Ed Matheson also showed up well. Although beaten in the first round, it was only after a hard fight and by a close decision to the man who went on to win the championship.

Next year should see Duke represented by one of the best boxing teams in the South. With veterans back in almost every weight and with a little better breaks than were received this year they should stand an excellent chance of taking the Southern Conference title. Returning next year will be Edwards, Martin, Starnes, Matheson, Bolich, Hyatt, and substitutes, Wentz and Miller, who will give some of the regulars plenty of opposition for their places.

SWIMMING SQUAD, 1930

Front row: Earnhardt, Stearns, Captain Baughman, Livengood, Atkins, Manager Sadler

Swimming, 1930

The Blue Devil tank team, minus the services of a regular coach, came through the hardest tank schedule ever given a team here, with a record which was consistently better than last year's. Coach Herman Steiner was slated, at the beginning of the season to direct swimming, but a breakdown forced him to leave school, and Herb O'Keef was put in to fill the gap as student coach.

The Devils began their season with Washington and Lee on January 18, losing to the General Natators by a 40-20 score. Captain Baughman and Jimmy Smathers took first for Duke in the 150-yard back stroke and 220-yard dashes respectively, while Stearns and Brawley took seconds. The second meet also proved to be a Jonah for the Devilfish, as Virginia came down to Durham to take a 42-24 decision from Duke. Stearns took the only first place of the day for Duke. The next meet was swum with Georgia Tech's Southern champion team in Atlanta on February 15. The Devils lost this one also by a 50-12 score, Baughman, Smathers and Stearns taking second places.

It was not until the Southern Conference swimming meet, held in Atlanta on February 28 and March 1, that the Dukesters hit their stride. Going down to the meet rated as only slightly dark horses, the Devilfish came through to place third in the Conference meet. Captain Baughman, Smathers and O'Keef took third places in the back stroke, 220-yard dash, and 200-yard breast stroke respectively, while the 200-yard relay, composed of Captain Baughman, Smathers, Brawley and Smith took a third, and the 300-yard medley relay composed of Captain Baughman, O'Keef and Brawley took a second place. Georgia Tech won the meet, Florida second, Duke third, Georgia fourth, Virginia fifth, and Clemson. Men to the Conference meet were Captain Baughman, O'Keef, Smathers, Stearns, Brawley, Smith and Manager Sadler.

On Monday, March 3, the Dukesters finished up their season against Emory University in Atlanta, coming off victors by a 41-21 score. Smith was high scorer with 12 points. Smith, Baughman, Smathers, Stearns took first places for Duke.

Men making letters this year were Captain Baughman, Stearns, Brawley, O'Keef, Smathers, Smith and Manager Sadler. Baughman was high scorer for the year with 26 points, while Smathers came second with 22.

1930 GOLF SQUAD

Golf, 1929

The Duke golfers, in their second year of intercollegiate competition, took on a schedule of hard matches and came off with six wins out of ten dual meets. Two of them were lost to Georgia Tech, Southern champs of last year. In addition to this, the Devil club swingers placed third in the state tourney, and placed one man, Jim Horton, in the S. I. C. Tourney held at Asheville last year.

The season opened against Georgia Tech at Atlanta. The Devils had not yet hit their stride and dropped this match by a 13-5 score. On the following day they met the University of Georgia and lost this one also, by 15-3. In the third match of the season, however, Duke turned back the University of North Carolina, 9½-8½. The Davidson Wildcats reversed the order of things in the following match, however, and Duke lost, 8½-9½. The Washington and Lee Generals were the next team to be met, and Duke won the first decisive golf victory of the year, winning by a 12-6 score. The Tech Yellow Jackets were met next, this time in Durham, and Duke played in hard luck to lose by only one point, 8½-9½. The season ended in a glorious finale for the Dukesters, as Washington and Lee, N. C. State, and Carolina fell before them in succession. State was met twice, the scores being 16½-1½ and 12-6, while W. and L. was beaten 12-6 and Carolina 11-7.

Tony Longo, New York pro, and Marshall Crichton, Hope Valley pro, acted as coaches during the year. Bill Jennings acted captain for the second year, also acting as manager. Wilson Randle and Jim Horton were the other letter men.

TENNIS SQUAD, 1930

CURTIS, FARRIS, CAPTAIN MEYERS, FRANK, ROGERS, PHILLIPS, MANAGER HOOPY

Tennis, 1929

With only two veterans, Captain Ham. Hargrave and Wood Dorsett, back from the previous year's varsity, the Duke tennis team was sufficiently bolstered by the four sophomore stars from an unbeaten freshman team to play through a highly satisfactory and successful season. The first four positions on the team were filled by George Rogers at first singles, Jack Meyers, second singles, Roland Folk, third, and Grady Frank, fourth. Captain Hargrave played fifth, and Wood Dorsett, sixth.

The state intercollegiate tournament played at Chapel Hill under the most adverse weather conditions, nevertheless brought forth good tennis by the Blue Devils. Grady Frank reached the finals after an uphill struggle in the semi-finals, and lost only after making a game bid for the championship. Other members of the team showed up well in this tournament.

The first dual match of the season against N. C. State was a decisive victory for the Blue Devil netmen, without the loss of a single set. N. C. State was helpless before the skillful playing of the Duke racketeers, the final score showing a whitewash, 9-0.

The northern invasion was started auspiciously by a victory over the powerful University of Virginia team by a score of 6-3. The whole team showed up well in this match.

From Charlottesville, the team journeyed to Annapolis and played a very interesting and hard fought match with the midshipmen. With the exception of the first singles match, which Rogers lost to a man who has few superiors in college tennis, every match was as hard fought and close as possible.

The match scheduled with Georgetown was cancelled because of rain, and the trip ended successfully with a decisive win over University of Richmond, by a score of 9-0. This match showed the whole team exhibiting unbeatable tennis.

Two matches were played against a powerful University of North Carolina team with a number of veteran and several sophomore stars. These matches were close and hard fought, but Carolina had the edge because of greater experience after playing through a long schedule of matches. The first match at home was lost, 6-3. Meyers, playing Carolina's state champion for the second time, fought hard but lost by a close margin. Rogers and Frank won, and Rogers and Folk turned in a victory in doubles. The second match at Chapel Hill ended with a 7-2 victory for Carolina. Rogers lost a close match to the Carolina star, Frank won his match, and Frank and Meyers defeated the state doubles champions.

Jack Meyers, one of the sophomore stars, was elected to captain the netmen of 1930, and will lead a powerful team on the courts. Returning members of the varsity squad will also include Grady Frank, George Rogers, and Carter Farriss. Several men from the freshman team will add considerable strength, chief among them being Gene Phillips, an experienced tournament player. Others who will round out the varsity squad are Zeb Curtis, Don Garber, and Joe Webb. This team ranks with the best in the South.

Development of Minor Sports at Duke

The rapid pace of the major sport teams at Duke has been closely followed and even preceded by the fine records of the minor sports. All the minor teams in the past few years have produced at least one champion. Cross-country, Boxing, Wrestling, Swimming, Tennis, and Golf have each won either a Southern or State championship.

The Cross-country team of 1928-1929 by their exceptionally fine record won the title of Southern champions. The team of 1929-1930, not quite as good, placed a man, Bill Simon, second in the Southern Conference run. Simon also won the State championship and broke many course records during the season.

Boxing, although the youngest sport at Duke, has ranked high and produced a champion in 1928-1929 in the person of "Shack" Martin, winner of the Southern Conference 115-pound title.

The Wrestling team has been most successful, winning the Southern championship in 1927-1928, and placing four men, Applewhite, Starnes, Jones, and Culp, on the all-Southern. The following year, the first year in the Southern Conference, found them winners of the Conference championship. Ralph Starnes, captain of the 1929-1930 team, has completed three years of varsity wrestling without the loss of a match.

The swimming team has also produced champions in the persons of the two Earnhardt brothers. The record of the team has suffered because of the lack of material to back up the Earnhardts.

State tennis titles have been frequent to Duke in the past. Stewart Rogers brought the latest one to Duke in 1928 and also won the title in 1926. Last year, 1929, Grady Frank was runner-up for the championship.

The Golf team, one of Duke's most recent additions to varsity sports, has had considerable success since its inauguration. Bill Jennings won the state championship in 1928 and has won many other tournaments through the South. The team won the State Intercollegiate title last year, 1929, and was one of the leading college teams of the South.

The Blue Imps under the tutelage of Coach Eddie Cameron finished one of the most successful grid seasons this year that any Duke freshman team has ever had.

The Duke team opened the season against the Tar Babies of Carolina on the 12th of October, and the result was one of the closest games that has been seen around Durham for some time. The final score was 8-7, the one-point margin was due to a safety resulting from a blocked punt recovered by Blackson, Imp center.

After playing one of the hardest games of the year, the Duke team came out on the short end of the score against State chiefly because of some bad breaks. The defeat was not a bad one, but it kept the Imps from having a clean slate for the season.

On the second of November, the Duke freshmen fans were treated to something which might as well have been called a track meet as a football game. The Blue Imps seemed to disregard the Baby Deacons and to score at will. Coach Cameron gave nearly all his men a chance to see action, and it was plainly seen that the second team was very nearly as good as the first. Wake Forest did not lack fight, but they were up against material that was far out of their class.

Playing against old enemies who have many times defeated Duke teams, this year's edition of the Blue Imps won a decided victory from the strong Oak Ridge team. The game was played at Greensboro on Armistice Day, and a large crowd was on hand to witness this annual classic.

In the final game of the season, the Imps emerged victorious after sloshing their way through a muddy field. The Wild Kittens were not able to meet the onslaughts of the Dukesters nor were they able to show much offensive power themselves.

As a climax to a successful season, several of the most outstanding of the Duke freshmen were picked on the mythical all-State freshman team. Among the men picked on the first team were: Blackson, center; Mullen, guard; Coombs, back; Daughtery, tackle; Werner, guard; and Sillman, back. Those receiving honorable mention were: Cochrane, back; and Ershler, back. Blackson blocked five punts during the season, an average of one block a game.

The freshman football squad was composed of the following men: Blackson, Mullen, Sink, Horten, Daughtery, Hamrick, Brownlee, Holt, Cochrane, Sillman, Reiber, Coombs, Ershler, Rupp, Lemons, Green, Mason, Deichman, Abbott, Werner, Gold, Wright, Bowden, Ingalls, Carpenter, Rickmon, Williams, Anderson, and Eckerd.

Freshman Basketball, 1930

The greatest freshman team ever to represent Duke in any sport, undefeated throughout a season of eleven games, and never even close to defeat, was the remarkable record made by the Blue Imp basketball quintet. Composed of a number of individual stars, their success was due to co-operation and team work. The combination that they offered of a swift, unstoppable offense and an air-tight defense proved too great for their opponents.

Their debut was made against Oak Ridge Military Institute, and they showed promise of compiling their future wonderful record by easily defeating the Cadets by a large score. Successive victories were turned in over State twice, Durham High twice, Wake Forest twice, Davidson, the strong team of Georgia Military Academy, and the highly touted Carolina freshman team, twice. All these games were won by large scores, some of them overwhelming, the Duke frosh never being threatened.

All the Duke freshmen starred, and to pick out one individual above the rest would be impossible. Cappelli, the Washington, D. C., flash featured with his shooting, his floor work, and his all-'round brilliancy; Colley, also from Washington, resembled Werber in his play and gives promise of taking Bill's place on the varsity next year; Horne, Cappelli's mate at the other forward, showed a dead eye for the basket and should see much action next year. Robertshaw, the other guard, proved to be invaluable on defense and a good passer; Hill proved a great asset at center, because of his height and ability to take the ball off the backboard. He also has a scoring eye and teamed well with his mate .

With this stellar material coming up, next year's varsity should be strong and should rate with the teams that represented Duke on the basketball court of the last two years.

Intersociety Debate

In the thirty-seventh annual debate between the two ancient literary societies of Duke University, Columbia was declared the victor over Hesperia, making the all-time record tally seventeen victories for Columbia while Hesperia retains the lead with twenty wins.

The topic which was made the subject of this debate was "Resolved: That further unionization of labor is desirable at the present time in North Carolina." Columbia's winning team nobly upheld the affirmative, and Hesperia launched a strong attack for the negative side of the question, but failed to gain the decision of the judges, who were Drs. R. S. Rankin, R. N. Wilson, and Messrs. G. M. Gregory, W. B. Bolich, and C. E. Jordan. The Hesperian team was composed of Murray C. Miller, George Robbins, and Irvin Morgan, and although they lost the decision, they were nevertheless a credit to all for which Hesperia stands. Columbia was well represented by Kenneth Munden, Thomas S. Stearns, and Nelson Blake. They, by the strength of their arguments and by the decisive manner in which the subject was upheld, deservedly won the verdict of the judges.

This annual debate is one of the long established events which takes place on the campus each year, and the recent contest was attended by members of the Columbia and Hesperian societies as well as by many others interested in the query discussed.

Intercollegiate Debating

THE "CHANTICLEER" heralds a year in which the forensic outlook is exceptionally promising while lauding a most successful season in 1929. The revival of interest in intercollegiate debating which has stirred the country this year, has but stimulated further an activity that has always been prominent at Duke University.

Nine debates were held during the 1929 season. Seven of the nine debates were won by the Duke representatives, and one debate went to a no-decision finish. But a mere pronouncement of victories, impressive as it is, gives no concept of the value or scope of the experience gained. The queries were pertinent; the competition was keen.

The first query debated, early in March, was "Resolved: That expert judges, three or five in number, should be substituted for our present system of trial by jury." Everett B. Weatherspoon and Charles H. Livengood, Jr., defended the negative side of the query against Emory University and won by a 2-1 decision. The negative of the same query was again successfully upheld on April 8 by Everett B. Weatherspoon and William F. Howland, Jr., against Mercer University. Birmingham Southern was then defeated on April 19 by William F. Howland, Jr., and Bob L. Pool on the same topic.

"Resolved: That national advertising as now carried on is socially and economically harmful," was debated by Chisman Hanes, J. G. Pratt, and H. C. Weingarten. The Duke speakers successfully defended the negative side of the query against the representatives from Princeton.

On April 10, a Harvard debating team fought a no-decision duel with Duke over the topic "Resolved: That loyalty is the curse of American colleges." Everett B. Weatherspoon, J. Walter Johnson, and R. L. Brown, Jr., repelled the verbal affrays of the New England invaders.

On April 12, Jennings G. King and T. Spruill Thornton debated a team representing the University of South Carolina at Duke University. The Duke speakers won the negative of the query "Resolved: That with existing attitudes toward law enforcement the honor system in student government is inadvisable in American colleges."

The annual northern trip of the team was quite successful. The question debated was the same as that discussed with South Carolina. Jennings G. King, Everett B. Weatherspoon, and T. Spruill Thornton won the affirmative side of the argument against the University of Richmond on April 22. The same debaters won the negative of the query from Princeton University on April 23. The debaters then returned south to be defeated by the University of Maryland on the negative side of the same question.

Nine veterans of the 1929 season are back this year. Two debates have been held thus far. In March, Jennings G. King and Paul R. Ervin won over representatives from the University of Alabama by a 2-1 decision.

On March 21, Charles H. Livengood, Jr., and Everett B. Weatherspoon lost unanimously to the debaters from the University of Richmond while upholding the query "Resolved: That the United States should renounce extra-territoriality in China."

The next intercollegiate debate is scheduled for April 2, when the question "Resolved: That the principle of the chain store system is detrimental to the best interests of the public of the United States," will be discussed. J. Irvin Morgan and H. C. Weingarten will represent Duke University on the affirmative side of the query.

The southern trip will start on April 7 and will last over a week. The Duke debaters will face the University of South Carolina at Columbia, S. C., on the 7th of April, in the first of five consecutive debates. The University of Georgia, at Athens, Emory University, at Atlanta, and Birmingham Southern University, at Birmingham, will then be met in succession. The query under discussion, which will be debated from both angles, is "Resolved: That the principle of the Baume's law, imposing life sentence against habitual offenders of the criminal code, be adopted by the states of the American union."

The "Chanticleer" continues to prophesy a successful forensic record for the coming year.

Glee Club To Invade Europe

Having won two state championships, the Southern Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest, and having sung in historic Carnegie Hall, New York City, with the leading glee clubs of America, the Duke University Glee Club is this year trying for new honors. Everything thus far has been focused on the proposed European tour. The Club expects to sail from New York on June 6, returning the latter part of July. The countries to be visited are England, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, and France. Ten concerts will be given in as many different cities. On July 2, the boys expect to witness the famous Passion Play at Oberammergau.

In addition to the European tour, there have been the usual fall and spring trips. In conjunction with the symphony orchestra and the women's glee club, the men assisted in the production of the opera, H. M. S. Pinafore, by Gilbert and Sullivan. More than one hundred men have composed the 1929-30 Glee Club.

The Yellow Scandal

By Secon Verncrese

Duke Talkie Emporium, Nov. 30, 1929.—Twelve hundred wondering students gathered today at 10:30 in this bedomed home of chapel-goers where they clapped their hands, yelled, stepped on one another's corns and functioned otherwise abnormally, while the dean, president of the student body, captain of the football team and his cohorts, and various members of the thundering herd employed the extent of sixty minutes (Eastern Standard or any other time) in an effort to install School Spirit on the Campus.

Dean Mannywaker opened the meeting with a very diplomatic assertion (his deanness was outnumbered 1,200 to 1) of the high opinion which he seemed quite suddenly to have developed toward the student body. He advised the use of adhesive tape and mustard plasters as a means of creating brotherly love. Winding up his statements with a prayer for student support in the week ahead (Carolina is to be met Sat'dy) the East Dukian yielded to prexy Sav Jovage, the Terror of the Schack and second only to Sweepum Wright of the south end of Jarvis.

After falsely asserting that he had resided at Duke four years, Mr. Jovage indicated that spirits was in evidence on the Quadrangle, but it had been kept bottled up too much of the time (monstrous applause from the wet chambers of the House). Stirred to greater heights by this demonstration, His Muchness vehemently declared, as he trembled from forehead to toenail with emotion, "Our school's spirits are the worst in America." (Breathless silence while six fainting bootleggers are carried from the room by their fraternity brothers.)

With a word of praise for the undying efforts of the manager of the Pee Dab team in creating an era of good feeling immediately after the Post-Exam Jubilee last year, and a condemnation of the Yellow Sheet, which appears to be a bastard literary production on the campus, prexy Sav called on his fellow Hi Betcha Hatta member, Stermus S. Toms, seniordent of the Present Class, to release his opinion on the subject. The gentleman from Illinois had two words, "rotten" and "co-operation," on the tip of his tongue. He deplored the present lack of school spirits between the halves of football games and tried to find Wanks Jinkoner to pray for the students to pull together in an attempt to create this much-needed substance right here on the campus.

Then Captain Henry Histler took the stand away from the dean and both prexies, by virtue of a fake mountain pass, proceeded to change the mob's consensus of opinion in more ways and means than Dr. Less can plait his radical van dyke during chapel periods. Starting off like a balmy spring on a windy day, His Captaincy related with tears in his eyes his team's maneuverings with Tom Jimson and Ty Headtree in developing a source of spirits. Gaining in momentum, he begged the students to get behind the wet aristocracy; and, in a final outburst of two languages, the mammoth leader told the thirsty hundreds that they had no school spirits, that anybody could holler an hour a week on apple cider and that they should upset their equilibriums and wake up.

Becoming so filled with vice, precedent and a desire for vocal combustion that remaining seated longer was entirely out of the question, Weverette Featherspoon arose as one man and employed with the force of a thousand all the tactics of Mr. Pickerel's How-to-woo-and-wed course in an enthusiastic appeal to the student body to rise up and 'spress itself. (Prolonged tumult while the Twelve Hundred arises and roars, "I am thirsty!")

Apparently oblivious to the fact that he was transgressing upon prexy Sav's divine right of presidership and newly polished right shoe the captain next introduced every member on his squad who had made a run of at least thirty gallons during the fall. Each in turn told of his earnest desire to manufacture a longing for better spirits. All of the students woke up again and drank in the dean's final words of warning that Duke's students had to outshine the residents of Tar [illegible]ellia Saturday, and it was inevitable that they patronize their local bootleggers, and the Twelve Hundred rushed away to the bars and streams of "Dear Ole Duke."

News From the I Signa Phi Honorary Fraternity

The I Signa Phi Fraternity was organized at Duke in the year 1928 with the following men as its charter members: Bill Bryan, "Kid" Brewer, "Flop" Beaver, Don Hyatt, Bill Hicks, Ben Russ, Bob Stevenson and "Pinky" Plaster. Since that time it has seen some good men come and go. Some of the men whom we have pledged since that time include "Red" Stroughn, "Tim" Timons, "Shank" Warwick and many others.

The I Signa Phi Fraternity is a resting place on the way from the great unwashed to a fraternity man and back. It stands for everything that most people sit down for (including the national anthem). Its aim is to make college life as interesting as possible and to provide some place to go during chapel period besides the Dope Shop. It endeavors to provide its select members with an atmosphere of brotherhood, without the usual costs. In fact, there are no fees, no dues, no fines, and very little of anything else connected with this extinguished order. No one has ever been defamed for breaking a rule in this fraternity because there are none.

The rent for the chapter room is paid by the two boys who sleep, eat and take up laundry in it. In fact, the chapter room is used for everything from a place to go and meet the boys and borrow money on down to studying.

The furniture is composed of articles ranging from soap boxes to Virginia State highway signs which have been converted into a table for the victrola. And the victrola was made, after much research and study, with a coffee grinder, three old clocks, a Ford crank and Don Hyatt's deaf uncle's ear-horn. The collection of records is the largest and probably the worst on the campus. In the collection is included such late pieces as "Over There," "It's a Long Ways to Tiporary," "How You Gonna Keep 'Em Down on the Farm," and many others. And, of course, each member came

Max Snittlegrass Goes to College

Vernon Sechriest

Max Snittlegrass finished high school when the principal absent-mindedly signed a diploma in mistake for a suspension slip. He applied for admission at Carolina, but was Chased away because they thought he would Gaines something at Wake Forest. From there, however, he was shipped on the day before school started for going swimming in church. Not to be dismayed by these difficulties—Max had had difficulties before—young Snittlegrass sought the peaceful Brooks of State College; but his days there were numbered. In fact his hours—yea, even his minutes and seconds—were numbered, for upon mistaking his large right jaw, which was swollen because of toothache (he had such lovely toothaches, too!) for a tobacco quid container, the welcoming committee promptly scraped him up with shovels and deposited him on a train bound for Bull Durham.

Arriving at Duke on the "Hoot Owl," Max soon made up his mind to room in Branson, the campus palace. Accordingly, he awoke Mr. Tyree and Jim Rowe at 3:00 A.M., and they gladly signed him up for a sixth story room with bath and dripping water. He immediately called up the President, using a beautiful desk telephone (a present from Mr. Tyree) and announced his arrival. The President apologized for Max's poor reception, and sent his respects, two delicious hot dogs with onions, to the newcomer's apartments.

During the time Max has been with us he has stolen Joe Savage's Sunday pants, opened a saloon in the basement of Union, beaten Chief Schackner in a game of craps, given the Dope Shoppe a bad check, voted for the Honor System, and edited two "yellow sheets." But he has not been shipped. For does he not go to chapel every day and sit on the front row?

"What makes you so musical lately?"

"Why, Jim Thompson has been feeding us so much fish that I can sing to High Sea and know all the scales."

"Whither away?"

"To the infirmary to be examined for appendicitis."

"You don't seem worried."

"No, there won't be anything to it; I never passed an exam the first time in my life."

down here with some kind of a high school record. Then, too, "Pinky" Plaster still has the undisputed record for knowing the least about the most things. But Hicks broke our track record last year and some of the boys are still trying to make him pay for it. But education does seem to affect some people that way. And now to get back to the divan (for that's the most comfortable seat in the room), we lost it when the first payment came due. Our secretary, Bill Bryan, bought it at an annual fire sale for the scorching price of nothing down and two promises a week. Ain't that hot! But it seems that there was some misunderstanding about the transaction because it turned out that the man expected to get some real money for his divan. We didn't mind losing it though because we didn't like the color of it any way.

For awhile there was some argument as to what we were going to use for bridge cards, but it seems that Mr. Herring and Mr. Markham heard of our predicament because they sent us enough cards through the mail in one semester to last us the rest of the year. Of course, they are not the best cards in the world, but still Mr. Markham's had enough high numbers to fit in with the low numbers on Mr. Herring's and make a very good average.

Our fraternity has not gone national yet because we want to see America before we do any traveling. But we have invited such men as Herbert Hoover, Will Rogers and Boss Hill to become honorary members. Probably our letters got lost in the mail because we have not received an answer yet. Not even from Herb. Of course, we still pay our box rent and maybe we will hear sometime soon.

At one of our last meetings we had the president of our college to speak to us. Yes, sir, he said that if we woke him up again raising so much noise that he would come over and condemn us all to four years at Carolina.
